Our impact

Internationals Network seeks to graduate students who are well-prepared to embark upon successful postsecondary pathways. Success includes achievement metrics and tangible student experiences. In addition to high achievement rates, all across the schools and academies in Internationals Network, students report high levels of belonging, a feeling of being part of a community, and feeling like they matter as learners and individuals. They express being “part of a global community” and valuing their relationships with their peers and teachers.

Who we serve

- Over 9,000 students from over 130 countries, and speak over 100 languages
- Over 900 educators
- 28 public schools and counting across the United States

Student success

Internationals Network graduates compete in high school graduation, college enrollment and degree completion with a comparable set of peers across the US.

Across Internationals Network schools and academies, students graduate at rates that exceed the national average for students who enter school classified as English language learners.

Of those graduates, more Internationals Network graduates enroll in college than their peers by more than 12% and they stay, succeed and complete college at rates above their peers.
